In Campus Training Programme on Basic Business Management for Micro Entrepreneurs

(29 to 31 July 2024)

Introduction: Banks have been promoting and financing Self Help Groups (SHGs) and it has helped SHG members to meet their financial requirements. The ultimate aim of SHG movement has been to promote small business enterprises by the SHG members. The underlying belief is that SHG members have got tremendous entrepreneurial abilities and by unleashing this capability, small enterprises may come up in manufacturing various small value products and providing all kinds of services to meet the emerging requirements of the economy. These small businesses create job opportunities in the backward and under-developed areas, encouraging development in those regions and contributing to overall national development. This would result in creating of employment and self-sufficiency in rural areas and enable achieve the goal of Atma Nirbhar Bharat and Make in India Mission, a grand success.

Establishment of small enterprises requires honing the entrepreneurial skills, assessment of market conditions and enabling their risk taking ability. Further, the block capital and working capital requirements of micro businesses are not huge, but timely and adequate credit is very important for their success. Therefore, providing bank credit plays a major role in success of micro enterprises.

Keeping the above in mind, BIRD, Mangaluru has designed a 3 days' training programme covering various aspects of financing micro enterprises both from the perspective of entrepreneurs as well as from the bankers' point of view.

Objectives: By the end of the Programme, the participant will be able to:

- ❖ Explain the importance of micro-enterprises especially in rural areas
- ❖ Explain the techniques for assessment of block capital and working capital
- ❖ Explain the documentation requirements
- ❖ Describe strategies for recovery management
- ❖ Explain the features of CGTMSE Scheme
- ❖ Explain the role of banks in supporting micro-enterprises
