In Campus Training Programme on – Treasury Transformation for Cooperative and Rural Banks: Innovation with Compliance
(07 to 09 December 2026)

Introduction:

Investment is a core activity for all banks which needs active management for regulatory compliance (like maintenance of CRR/ SLR), management of Liquidity Risk and creating a source of stable income for the bank. To ensure this, all banks need to frame an Investment Policy in accordance with Master Directions of RBI, which shall guide the bank to undertake Investment and Treasury Operations within prudential limits and best practices. It must also provide appropriate guidance for Board, Senior Management, Investment Committee, ALCO etc. regarding their role with respect to active management of its investment portfolio. This requires training of bank officers in adequate numbers to manage and handle investment & treasury operations (which are very different from other banking operations) and which enables them to take appropriate and timely decisions in the best interest of the bank.

Objectives: At the end of the programme, the participants will be able to:

- Explain the importance of Investment Portfolio.
- Explain money and debt market concepts and instruments
- Describe the regulatory guidelines on Non SLR investments.
- State the prudential norms governing Non SLR investments including valuation of securities.
- List the internal control measures for managing the investment portfolio.
- Identify the major Risks associated with Investment viz. Interest Rate Risk and Liquidity Risk
- Adherence to Exposure Norms and other regulatory guidelines
